Besides, classical music also helps mothers feel relaxed and comfortable, so it's definitely a good way for them to relieve stress and reduce anxiety. Taking advantage of things around you to make useful ones for your hobbies is a good way to protect the environment. First, if you like gardening, don't throw away used glass bottles. You can reuse them to grow herbs and flowers in. They can help you know how much water your plants need easily. Second, ice cream sticks and coloured straws are useful things to make house models. Straws are used to make the roof, and ice cream sticks are used to make the rest of the house. With a little creativity and handiness, you can have cute house models that surprise your friends. Finally, it's fun to collect some seashells in the sand while you're cleaning the beach. You can use them to make wind chimes and hang on the window of your bedroom.
